

But wait...there is more

The Terrace Area offers even more options to help you reduce your impact on local landfills, here's how.

Although not all currently partnered with a British Columbia EPR Program, there are many other locations in the community that provide recycling opportunities!

What is Extended Producer Responsibility (EPR)?

EPR is an environmental management strategy mandated by the province of British Columbia. It uses Product Stewardship Programs, which are guided by the principle that whoever produces or uses a product must take responsibility for that product's environmental impact. This is why some products have an eco-fee.
